Airplane Routes In The Fighting Zone

THIS map shows the airplane distances from the allies' fighting front in France and Italy to important points in the enemy territory. The great Caproni, builder of airplanes in Italy that carry 27 men and 3000 pounds of explosives, urges an airplane campaign against the Germans with huge fleets of bombarding planes. D'Annunrio, the Italian poet-flyer, recently flew from the fighting lines in Italy and dropped thousands of pamphiets in Vienna telling the inhabitants of that city and surrounding country, as well as all the section of the country passed over, the true conditions in the west and on the Italian front, and that the American soldiers by the hundreds of thousands are pouring into France and Italy to reinforce the over a million there already.

The black portions of this map show the Italian "Irredenta" in the hard of Italian territory that has been under Austrian domination for many years, and which it has been the constant dream of Italians should be liberated from the hated yoke.
